Item 2122-327

New Certificate of Achievement

Engineering Design Technology: CAD Specialist

Description

This Certificate of Achievement provides a focused course of study for students in preparation for careers in the field of computer-aided design (CAD). Emphasis is placed on the use of CAD software to complete projects in engineering, manufacturing, or related fields. Coursework involves the preparation of CAD projects and 3D models accomplished within a design environment as experienced in higher levels of engineering education, and as is common in workplace conditions.

Item 2122-328

New Certificate of Achievement

Engineering Design Technology: Design and Production

Description

This Certificate of Achievement is designed for technical, mechanical, and manufacturing careers and CADD/Drafting-related industries. The certificate is intended to represent skills and understanding of production and design processes utilizing CAD software and prototyping.

Item 2122-329

New Certificate of Achievement

Engineering Design Technology: Standards for Design

Description

This Certificate of Achievement provides a focused course of study for students in preparation for careers in the field of engineering, manufacturing, drafting, and design technology. Emphasis is placed on the use of industry standards to complete projects in engineering, manufacturing, or related fields. Coursework involves the preparation of industry standards outlined by industry organizations such as the International Organization for Standardization (ISO), American National Standards Institution (ANSI), and American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME) to accomplish projects within a design environment as experienced in higher levels of engineering education, and as is common in workplace conditions.

C) First Readings:

Item 2122-333

New Credit Course

AUTO 330 Hybrid/Electric Vehicles

Description

This course explores the use of hybrid and electric power for vehicle transportation. Hybrid electric vehicles (HEV) will be studied and examined using an in-depth study of power flows, losses and energy usage are examined for isolated powertrain components and HEV configurations. Topics include powertrain architecture, vehicle testing, fuel consumption, aerodynamics and rolling resistance, engines, batteries, electric machines, power electronics, idle reduction and regenerative braking. Power flows, losses, energy usage, and drive quality are examined over drive-cycles to determine vehicle performance measures. Hybrid electric vehicle analysis will be developed and applied to examine the operation, integration, and design of powertrain components. Vehicle applications and their integrated systems from various manufacturers will be discussed and examined. Emphasis is placed on the design of the system parts. Components, subsystems, and their operation characteristics. Current industry-approved diagnostic and troubleshooting techniques, relevant case studies are discussed and demonstrated throughout the course.

Item 2122-334

Credit Course Revision

AUTO 350 The Future of Automotive Sales and Service

Updates to: Title, course description, and content

Item 2122-335

New Credit Course

AUTO 375 The Future of Mobility

Description

This course provides automotive technology students with a detailed, practical study of current and future means of mobility. The course is a practical and contextualized study of the importance of business practices of the automotive industry that have evolved from ownership to vehicle membership services. Topics include consumer perception, lifestyles, types of ownership, alternatives to ownership, and future ownership experiences, and ownership expectations and future strategies. Current automotive industry practices and recent case studies are discussed and demonstrated throughout the course. The overall goal of this course is to have students apply and demonstrate skills and knowledge in vehicle ownership currently and future trends that will enable them to advance their career within the automotive industry.

Item 2122-336

New Credit Course

AUTO 435 Automotive Manufacturers

Description

This course provides automotive technology students with a detailed, practical application of the numerous federal, state, and local agencies and their laws and regulations pertaining to the operation of an automotive wholesale and retail business. This course is a practical study of a broad scope of the function of an Original Equipment Manufacture (OEM). Topics include an in-depth study of automotive products, Franchise agreements, Partnerships and Sustainability. Current automotive industry practices and relevant case studies are discussed and demonstrated throughout the course. The overall goal of this course is to have students apply and demonstrate knowledge and skills that will enable them to advance their employment in the Automotive Manufacturing Landscape.

Item 2122-337

Credit Course Revision

AUTO 450 Variable and Fixed Operations of the Automobile

Updates to: Description and minor course revisions

Item 2122-338

New Credit Course

AUTO 480 Special Topics in Transportation

Description:

This course provides an opportunity for the Automotive Technology student to keep well-informed about the ever-changing trends, technology, and business management practices related to the transportation industry. Students may be expected to attend presentations by industry representatives and/or conduct research on new trends, technology, and/or business management practices. Students will present their findings to their instructor and peers. This course may be repeated for a maximum of six (6) units since the subject matter changes each offering.
