New Credit Course

KIN 136 Pilates Mat Teaching: Foundations

Description

This course includes foundational information necessary for those interested in teaching Pilates Mat classes. Pilates Mat Teaching: Foundations will focus on establishing a personal practice in combination with an experiential analysis of the physical fitness system created by Joseph Pilates. This course will also introduce the student to the history and philosophy of Pilates Mat, as well as the methodologies and business of teaching Pilates Mat. This course is designed for the student pursuing the proposed Pilates Mat Teacher Training Certificate, a career teaching Pilates Mat in the fitness industry, or for those interested in furthering their understanding of the effects and benefits of Pilates for health, fitness, rehabilitation, and overall physical performance and endurance.

Item 2122-392

New Credit Course

KINA 236 Pilates Mat 2

Description

KINA 236 is continuation of KINA 136. This course will build upon the basic Pilates mat exercises that were covered in KINA 136. The exercises in this course are designed to further increase strength in the abdominal and spinal musculature. Students will engage in exercises and learn how to utilize props (magic circles, stretch/exercise bands, mini balls, Gliders, and hand weights) designed to further increase awareness of body alignment, strength in the torso, spine and limbs, and will increase endurance while fine-tuning breathing techniques that are utilized in strength training exercises. Additionally, students will advance their coordination, balance, and will learn about the muscle groups and their actions being utilized during traditional Pilates mat work. This course is suitable for students interested in conditioning, dance, athletics, fitness, and individuals seeking to increase overall strength to better support the spine in everyday activities, and will be required in the Mat Pilates Teacher Training Certificate.
