

15 Tips to Engage, Guide, and Connect with Online Students

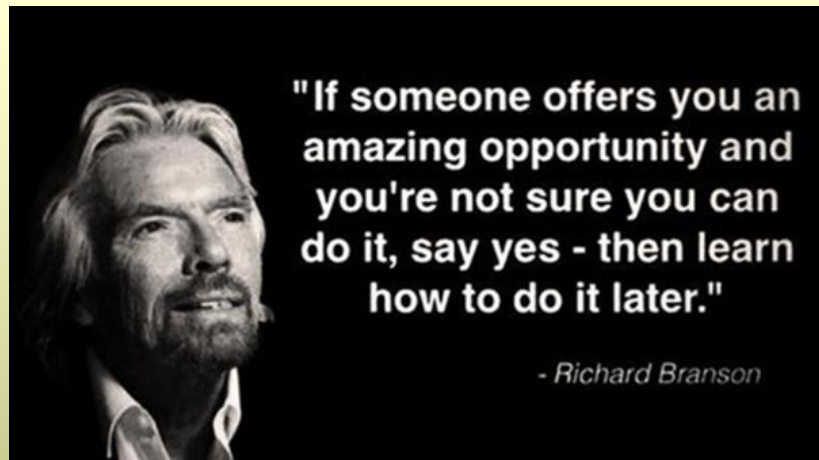

Presented by
Dr. Jodi Senk, Online Education Coordinator

Purpose

Online classes can be isolating, and often students lack motivation and/or learning strategies for online success. The purpose of this presentation is to provide you with insight, ideas, and best practices for online education to enhance the user experience....

And to have some fun!

Are your students engaged?

This is Elwood.

Elwood is not engaged.

Don't let your students be like Elwood!

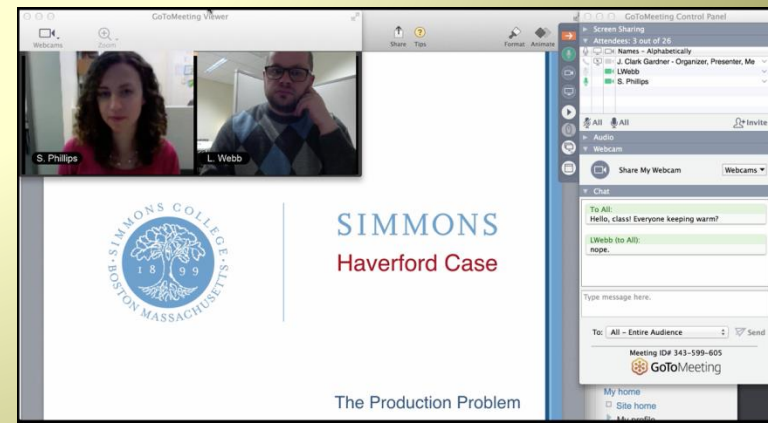

Engagement Tips

- 1) Welcome Letter: bio, picture 3-5 paragraphs
- 2) Contact Information: email, phone, contact info
- 3) ConferZoom: live engagement up to 100 people and 50 presenters; virtual office hours
- 4) Video: intro to each module...can use a phone, upload to YouTube, use captioning
- 5) Check-in: human connection: email, phone, even on campus

Guidance Tips

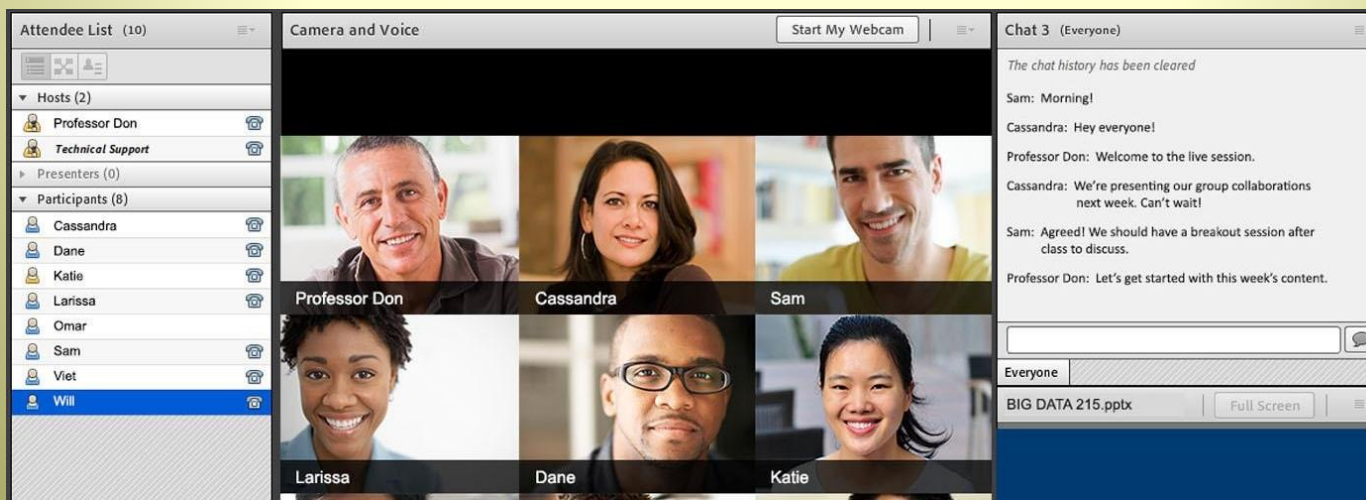

- 1) Ease of Navigation: design is easy to follow and organized, support, assessment, accessibility (use a rubric as guide)
- 2) Orientation: getting started and readiness
- 3) Chunking: breaking up content
- 4) Expectations: let students know what is expected, deadlines, reminders, guidelines for student expectation
- 5) Universal Design for Learning: clear goals, text, audio, video, graphics, multiple forms of assessment

Connection Tips

- 1) Creative Discussions- open-ended prompts, make connections between their culture and class, material, share interests
- 2) Groups: assign leaders, topics, group/team projects, study groups
- 3) Students Initiate- class cafe, confer zoom room for students
- 4) Innovative Technology- voice thread (collections of media for asynchronous), Social media (notebowl)
- 5) More ConferZoom- real-time conferences and presentations

Share Your Best Practices

- 1) What other ideas, tools, or strategies do you implement in your classes that help to engage, guide, or connect with students?
- 2) What workshops would you like to see offered through Online Education? Would you like them on campus or online?
