Catalog Course Description:

This introductory course explores the philosophical aspects of a variety of issues of contemporary interest, with an emphasis on social justice. Students will be taught both theoretical foundations as well as practical applications. This course is intended for all students interested in applying methods of philosophy to contemporary topics, for students interested in social justice, for Pathway to Law (pre-law) students, and for majors in Philosophy, Political Science, Social Justice, or Ethnic, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

Student Learning Outcomes:

Presented with a contemporary issue, students will articulate its relevance to social justice concerns and offer an interpretation and/or recommendations to address and resolve the issue.

Using the example of a philosopher or theory selected by the instructor, students will summarize a major social justice issue studied in the course and provide an analysis of the philosopher's or theory's interpretation and/or solution to the issues.

Presented with an example of a contemporary issue pertaining to social justice, students will write a position statement in which they defend a personal perspective and provide support.

By logging into Canvas you affirm that you are the student who enrolled in the course(s) and are the person who will complete the assigned work. Furthermore, you agree to follow the regulations regarding academic integrity, personal identification and the use of student information as described in BP 5500 (Standards of Conduct) and AP 5520 (Student Conduct Procedures) which are the Rio Hondo College student conduct codes that govern student rights and responsibilities. You acknowledge that failure to abide by the regulations set forth in BP 5500 and AP 5520 may result in disciplinary action, including expulsion from the college.
