Program Courses:

GDSN 110: History of Graphic Design (online)

This course is a survey of historical developments in graphic design from the Industrial Revolution to the Digital Age. Students will analyze the development of graphic design, its origins as a CTE area and the influences of political, social and economic climates of the different historical periods.

GDSN 150: Typography

The history, theory and practice of letterforms and typography as they apply to graphic design, advertising and other areas of design and visual communication. Projects cover the history and principles of typography, letter structure, typeface selection, fundamentals of typesetting and introductory typographic layout.

GDSN 151: Typographic Design

Focus is on the compositional use of type and its relationship to issues of visual hierarchy, readability and page structure. Students continue their exploration of typography as an expressive visual form through typographic design projects.

GDSN 162: Intro. To Web Design

A practical introduction for students interested in UX (user experience) and visual interface design and the challenges it poses for the Graphic Designer. Using Web Design applications like Adobe Dreamweaver and Adobe Photoshop, students are introduced to the steps involved in creating a basic functional interactive website.

GDSN 163: Intermediate Web Design

Focusing on usability, this intermediate class offers broader and more advanced instruction into the 'front-end' visual design and aesthetics of interactive media as well as the technical and design requirements of designing a fully functional website. Using intermediate web design applications, students are instructed in techniques needed in increasing the user experience (UX). Students continue to perfect the creation of a fully functional website using multifaceted applications.

GDSN 164: Digital Illustration Design

This course is an introduction to Graphic Design, and uses Adobe Illustrator design software as the principal digital tool. Topics include the Principles and Elements of Design, typography, color, shape stroke, illustration techniques, page layout design, as well as introductory critical concepts and professional practices employed by Graphic Designers. This course includes portfolio building with an emphasis on professional standards.

GDSN 165: Branding & Identity Design

This course is an exploration of Branding and Identity Design, a sub-discipline of Graphic Design. Topics include the research and development of Trademarks and Logos for clients, the Principles and Elements of Design, typography, color, shape stroke, illustration techniques, page layout design, as well as intermediate and advanced critical concepts and professional practices employed by Graphic Designers.

GDSN 172 - Publication Design

This course is an exploration of Publication Design, a sub-discipline of Graphic Design. Topics include the Principles and Elements of Design, page composition, creative use of typography, color, imagery and the grid, discussion of output and pre-press considerations for print and digital distribution as well as current methods/styles critical concepts and professional practices employed by Graphic Designers.

GDSN 174 - Packaging Design

For the student interested in a degree in Graphic Design and/or those interested in Packaging Design layout applications employed as tools by Graphic Designers for two-dimensional and three-dimensional surfaces. This course is a project-driven exploration of Packaging Design which is defined as stylized functional design for carrying, protecting, or presenting a product.

GDSN 178: Digital Imaging Design

An introduction to Graphic Design, and uses Adobe Photoshop software as the principal digital tool. Topics include: photo/raster/bitmapped-based scanning, image formats, optimization, re-touching, adjustments, compositing, blending, color, conceptual and narrative techniques, current technical and creative methods and styles employed by Graphic Designers as well as introductory critical concepts and professional practices.

GDSN 179: Advanced Digital Imaging Design

This course is an advanced project-driven exploration of Graphic Design, and uses Adobe Photoshop software as the principal digital tool. This course includes portfolio building with an emphasis on professional standards.

GDSN 290: Cooperative Work Experience/Internship

This course supports and reinforces on-the-job training in business and industrial establishments under supervision of a college instructor and is facilitated by the use of learning objectives.

GDSN 299: Directed Study in Graphic Design

The course provides an opportunity for the student to expand their studies in Graphic Design beyond the classroom by completing a project or an assignment arranged by agreement between the student and instructor.
